EARTH DAY

April 22

HOW TO love THE EARTH

A Note From Mr. Yazzie

Hello, Scout Families! We are pleased to share that the Easter egg coloring and party were successful! A big shout-out to Tinicio Morgan and Harlan Pablito for their efforts in coordinating the Easter festivities. As we approach the final five weeks of school, I am happy to report that we have successfully covered all core English Language Arts, Math, and Science standards through our Beyond Textbooks program. During the remaining weeks, we will focus on reviewing and introducing some 6th-grade lessons, particularly in math. Beginning next week, students will participate in their NWEA benchmark assessments, which will help us gauge your child's growth throughout the school year. Thank you for your continued support! GO SCOUTS GO!

A Peek At What We Are Learning:

Reading

Students will complete their Greek Mythology unit this week. After that, they will be introduced to their final trade book of the school year, titled "Heroes of the Water Monster" by Brian Young.

Writing

Students will be challenged to create their own myths to explain some natural phenomena. Students will then type their first and final drafts on Google Docs.

Math

Students will continue to resolve real-world word problems while selecting the appropriate measurements for their analysis. Then, students will be introduced to ratios.

Science

Students will explore the fascinating concepts of animal adaptations, examining how various species have evolved unique traits to survive and thrive in their environments.

Diné Studies

According to Ms. Benally, students will be introduced to the preparation and cooking of traditional foods and delve deep into the cultural significance and history.
